Electronic Search Tool

The Electronic Search Tool is an online database containing the texts of Joel Goldsmith's published books and transcriptions of recorded classes. A joint effort between Acropolis Books, Inc. and The Infinite Way Office produced this powerful tool. It allows you to search for a specific word or phrase and view a list of relevant sources, complete with titles and excerpts. Use it to create a unique course of study, organized by subject, principle, phrase or quotation, book, or class, among other possibilities. Click here for our detailed user guide.

A Parenthesis in Eternity: Chapter XXVIII, The Tree of Life

Even between husbands and wives, parents and children, there is conflict, and the conflict is always a battle for the supremacy of the ego. Each one wants to be something of himself, and that something enters into conflict with the something of the other self. So it is that throughout the human scene there has always been conflict. True, there is an appearance of peace, but as long as each one has a self of his own, he will be catering to that ego, trying ... There may be many forms, but back of the forms there is the One. True peace can be established between us only

Practicing the Presence: Chapter VII, Meditation

... The mystics revealed that in quietness and in stillness is our strength. In and in stillness we find God, not in outside worship. Jesus went a step further and told us that we must pray in secret: We must enter the inner sanctuary, close the door, and pray where men cannot see us. When we are alone, there is an opportunity for something to take place that can never take place in public. Why? Because when we are in public, the ego is on display. We cannot be ourselves, even in the presence of our loved ones. Anything that tends to display the ego
